Market Overview

In the Interim Budget, the government's focus was on providing support to growth while maintaining fiscal deficit within comfortable limits. The budget focused on (i) significant measures to support/provide relief to farmers, the middle class and vulnerable sections, (ii) correcting some anomalies and fine tuning provisions to provide relief to the real estate sector, and (iii) providing a vision which might form the basis for policy-making if returned to power. While the Budget continued to focus on long-term structural reforms such as doubling farmers' income by 2022, housing for all, energy sufficiency, fiscal consolidation; the stimulus will boost consumption in FY20. From the equity market perspective, the budget is clearly positive for Consumption and Real Estate. The government is trying to re-inflate the economy with a thrust on consumption. Also, as capacity utilization in India has been inching up gradually, any recovery in consumption growth will drive the private investment cycle. Earnings growth is expected to pick-up going ahead on a muted base created over the last few years. We continue to remain positive on India's long term growth potential
